10 LUXURY DUDE RANCHES

▶ PLAY NEXT > » READ FULL STORY

Siwash Lake Ranch; Cariboo Country, British Columbia © Siwash Lake

This secluded Canadian ranch gets a green stamp of approval for using solar energy. But that doesn't mean only greenhorns will appreciate this place, set 20 minutes from its nearest neighbor. More experienced equestrians can ride without the guidance of a wrangler—a policy not found at most American ranches. Also, children of any age are welcome mid-June to August and on long weekends, or if a family books ranch for a private stay. Just be warned: Due to a limited in-ranch supply, Siwash recommends specifying your alcohol preferences before arrival, or simply bringing your own. Good excuse to fill the flask.

Open May–October, January–February; three-night minimum stay; $300–$449 per person, per night. For more information: www.siwashlakeranch.com
